'The Square Mile'.

On-street Parking Enforcement

City of London

- Contract held since April 2001
- In accordance with TMA 2004 legislation
- 48 operators
- 7-strong rapid response team
- 5 dedicated CCTV employees

“We are delighted with the contribution that VINCI Park continues to make in meeting the changing and unique challenges that traffic flow and congestion causes us in the City of London”.

Ian Hughes, Traffic Manager, City of London.

Small size, big challenge

With its unique concentration of businesses, small geographic area, narrow streets and large number of building works, the City of London poses special challenges to traffic management and parking enforcement. Issuing Penalty Charge Notices is, therefore, only a very small part of the job, with the real focus being on keeping traffic moving.

Rapid response to problems

In order to do this, in addition to establishing foot patrols and CCTV enforcement, VINCI Park introduced a rapid response team in 2001, which uses motor scooters and mountain bikes to respond quickly to problems and maintain a consistent level of enforcement. A further two employees are dedicated to addressing building site traffic issues to avoid traffic disruption.

Working in partnership

Our VINCI Park employees have also been trained as volunteers to support the police with road closures in the event of a critical incident, freeing up police time.

Added services to meet changing needs

The contract also allows the flexibility to provide services on an added-value basis. New developments such as CCTV enforcement, a staffed Parking Helpdesk, and enforcement of red routes, have all been added to the contract as enhancements and have been developed in partnership by VINCI Park and the City of London.
